Principles Guiding the University of Winnipeg Human Research Ethics Board (UHREB) Review

1.0 In accordance with the latest version of the Tri-Council Policy Statement: Ethical Conduct of Research Involving Humans (2018), all research, scholarship, and teaching exercises involving living human participants or human biological materials undertaken under the aegis of The University of Winnipeg shall reflect the core principles of: respect for persons; concern for welfare; and justice. These core principles expressing the underlying value for human dignity serve to balance the goals of protecting participants and serving the legitimate requirements of research. This involves identifying levels of risk, and may involve peer review of the project's science/scholarship when the risk is more than minimal.
